How death investigations contribute to safe medication use

In 2012-2013, ISMP Canada embarked on an extensive national project to use the formal death investigation files of coroners and medical examiners in order to advance patient safety. This rich source of investigative data can provide insight into contributing factors to medication incidents. This webinar will outline the rationale for the project, briefly describe the methodology of case review and analysis, and share some highlights of the findings. Presentation of selected cases from the project will emphasize important patient safety concepts arising from coroners' and medical examiners' data.
